

SUBJECT AREA AND PROJECT TEACHER, MIDDLE SCHOOL

Job Information

Job Title	Middle School Subject Area and Project Teacher
Location	Durham, North Carolina
About Duke School	Founded in 1947, Duke School has as its mission to "inspire learners to boldly and creatively shape their future." Duke School offers an exceptional project-based learning environment that seeks to develop high-level analytical and critical thinking skills in all of its students. Duke School is a preschool through 8 th -grade day school enrolling approximately 500 students.

Job Summary

Duke School offers an exceptional project-based learning environment that seeks to develop high-level analytical and critical thinking skills in all of its students. This focus compliments explicit instruction in the core academic disciplines of mathematics, science, social sciences, Spanish, and English. This engaging and rigorous approach to educating middle school students is implemented by a collaborative team of four teachers at each grade level. Middle school at Duke School comprises grades 5-8, with each grade enrolling approximately 50 students.

We are seeking an exceptional Middle School Subject Area and Project Teacher with a sound understanding of best practices in teaching and working with adolescents beginning in August 2023. The ideal candidate will have an education degree and at least three years of teaching experience. A deep understanding of middle school philosophy and a commitment to the academic and social/emotional growth of students is essential. Being able to work collaboratively on a team is critical for this position.

To Apply

NOTICE OF NONDISCRIMINATORY POLICY: Duke School does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national and ethnic origin in its hiring practices and encourages people of traditionally marginalized groups to apply for employment.

Please e-mail your resume, including a list of references along with a cover letter to teach@dukeschool.org. Diverse candidates are encouraged to apply. Compensation is commensurate with experience and abilities and reflective of local salary levels.